The Surface Water Monitoring Centre of the Ministry of Natural Resources and Forestry advises that a strong Texas low pressure system is expected to move quickly through Southern Ontario on Sunday and overnight into Monday. Up to 40 mm of precipitation is expected in the region with temperatures hovering around freezing to single digit lows. The northern and higher elevation areas in our watershed may see snow, freezing rain and rain while southern portions will mostly experience rain.

Some minor flooding in low-lying areas along the Credit River and its major tributaries may occur. Local streams, rivers, and shorelines may become dangerous, especially in the vicinity of culverts, bridges and dams. The public is advised to stay away from all watercourses and waterbodies.

CVC will continue to closely monitor weather and water levels in the watershed. The Watershed Conditions Statement for Flood Outlook will be in effect through Tues-Apr-16-2019, or until further notice.

Note to Public: CVC's role during a flooding event is to monitor current watershed conditions and weather forecasts, predict river and creek conditions, and communicate our findings to the public, municipalities and media. For more information about this message please call CVC between 8:30 and 4:30 (Monday to Friday) at 905-670-1615 and ask for the Flood Duty Officer. If you are concerned about high water levels in your area, please contact your municipality. For emergencies requiring police, fire or ambulance, call 9-1-1.

Note to Municipal, MNR and CA staff: For more information about this message please call CVC between 8:30 and 4:30 (Monday to Friday) at 905-670-1615 and ask for the Flood Duty Officer. For after-hours inquiries, please phone our answering service at 1-800-215-8505.
